Dramatic Night Rescue Saves 43 From Broken Freighter

Heavy Seas Delay Rescue Ship Movement

New York (AP)—A dramatic night rescue in the stormy North Atlantic saved 43 persons early yesterday after their ship broke in two. All apparently were unharmed.

However, one of the rescue vessels, the U. S. Military Sea Transport ship Bluejacket carrying 36 of the 43 survivors, reported late yesterday she was making little progress.

"Have-to due to mountainous seas and severe storm," a message from the Bluejacket said.

The entire crew of the Swedish freighter Oklahoma, 42 men and a woman, were hauled from four lifeboats some 400 miles off Newfoundland after the ship cracked up.

They had spent ten hours or more in lifeboats on the icy, wind-swept ocean before their rescue by the Bluejacket and the Finnish freighter Orion.

Late yesterday the Bluejacket radioed that survivors she rescued were all in good condition.

There was no word here from the Finnish freighter, which carried the other seven survivors.

But, a Coast Guard spokesman said that since the seven were rescued about the same time as the others, and the Orion proceeded on her course toward Europe, it could be assumed the seven also were unharmed.

The message from the Bluejacket said the 36 survivors were given food, hot coffee and medical whiskey immediately after the rescue.

"No shock evident," the radio message added.

It also reported that messages had been dispatched from the Bluejacket to the sailors' relatives in Europe saying "everyone well."

Late yesterday no trace of the 5,900-ton Oklahoma had been found.

The skipper of the Oklahoma, Robert Kutschbach, was quoted in the Bluejacket's message as saying that when the ship broke in two, the men assembled at the after end.

When the engine started taking water, they were forced to take to the lifeboats.

But before leaving the ship, the Oklahoma crew turned on automatic distress signals.

These constant "SOS" signals enabled the nearby Bluejacket to "home in" on the sinking ship.

The Bluejacket arrived at the position about 6:30 p.m. (EST). But at first found no trace of survivors.

After sighting the first lifeboat, the Bluejacket said, she had a great deal of difficulty maneuvering into a rescuing position because of the heavy seas.

Finally at 1:50 a.m. the last of 14 survivors from the first boat was pulled aboard the Bluejacket by lifelines.

The Bluejacket then continued the search, and a few minutes later sighted the second lifeboat. It took until 3:22 a.m. to get the last of 11 persons in the second boat aboard.

At 3:25 the Bluejacket sighted two more boats, and arranged with the Orion, which had appeared on the scene, that each would take one boat.

The Bluejacket had rescued 11 more persons from the third boat by 3:45 a.m. and about the same time the seven others were taken aboard the Orion.

Michele had last seen his father in 1932, and his mother in 1937.

Violent Christmas Holiday Death Toll Mounts To 614 With Traffic Top Reason

By The Associated Press

The toll of violent deaths over the Christmas holiday mounted to 614 late Sunday with but a few hours remaining of the three-day period. Pennsylvania had 19 deaths by traffic, three by fires and five by miscellaneous causes.

Since 6 p.m. (local time) Thursday 453 persons have perished in traffic accidents across the country. Another 73 lives were lost in fires and 88 persons died in miscellaneous mishaps.

California led the traffic slaughter with 34 dead. Thirty died on New York streets and highways, while Ohio accounted for 26.

The National Safety Council had predicted at least 510 would die in traffic mishaps before the holiday period closed at midnight Sunday.

In addition to the traffic fatalities, another 72 lives were lost in fires and 84 persons died in miscellaneous mishaps.

The record death toll for any kind of a holiday was a four-day July 4, 1950 period when 793 persons died. The highest for traffic deaths was a four-day weekend during Christmas of 1952, with a toll of 556.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the council, issued the following statement after the traffic fatality death-toll apparently had been slowed down:

"The holiday traffic toll has slackened its pace to a gratifying degree. We feel this can be attributed to the emphasis placed on the huge early toll by press and radio and to increased traffic law enforcement in many localities.

The National Safety Council said Sunday night the record traffic deaths for a three day holiday was established at Christmas in 1950. That year the traffic deaths numbered 545, and a total of 179 died in fires or from miscellaneous causes. The total of 724 was an all time high for the three day holiday, the council said.

They added the 1950 three day traffic toll was only 11 short of the all time four day high of 556 for the Christmas holiday in 1952.

South Korea Indignant On Troop Slash

By The Associated Press

Seoul, Monday, (AP)—President Eisenhower's announced plan to reduce U. S. military forces in Korea, with two divisions to be withdrawn "soon," stirred enthusiastic speculation today among the soldiers but was received with undisguised displeasure by South Korean officials.

"I could jump through the ceiling if I thought it meant I would be going home sooner," was the typical reaction voiced by Pfc. Louis G. Sheeps, 641 East Main St., Lock Haven, Pa.

In a more reserved reaction, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, commander of the U. S. Army forces in Korea, said "It may be safely assumed that the departure of these divisions will not take place immediately."

The general also said the withdrawals would not affect men with considerable time to serve in Korea. Such men will be transferred from the designated divisions to other outfits in favor of men whose tours are about over.

Speculation was particularly strong in the U. S. 26th Div. with the soldiers asking, "Could it be us?"

The 25th has been in Korea longer than any other division.

Officials in the government of South Korea President Syngman Rhee, who frowns on the current truce and favors resumption of the war against the Reds, criticized Eisenhower's announced plan.

Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said it would weaken the republic's position and indicated he felt South Korean troops were not ready to step into the gap.

"We do not welcome any U. N. divisions being withdrawn, especially when their replacements have not been built with Korean personnel," he told newsmen.

Both Pyun and South Korean Prime Minister Paik Too Chin, said they had not been notified of the plan.

Man Freed In Bail On Four Charges

Accused Saturday of stealing from his wife and of threatening to shoot a man, Robert C. Howell, 28, East Stroudsburg RD2, was freed on $3,000 bail pending arraignment.

Formal charges are: felonious assault and battery; carrying a pistol without a permit; larceny; and fraudulent conversion of money.

Howell was arrested on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Herbert G. Bonser, East Stroudsburg.

The justice said the information was filed by Eugene L. Strunk, 615 Rosemond Ave., Stroudsburg. Strunk told the justice Howell assaulted him on King St., East Stroudsburg. There was a fistfight, and then Howell threatened to shoot Strunk, Justice Bonser reported.

Strunk went to find a policeman. Howell was arrested later and admitted having carried the pistol, Justice Bonser said. The pistol was thrown away along the railroad tracks. It was recovered by police, who said it was a .25 caliber automatic with one bullet in the chamber, the justice said.

The larceny and conversion charges were filed before Justice of the Peace William N. Walton, Stroudsburg, by Howell's wife, Rose.

She told Justice Walton Howell drew $500 of her personal money from the bank for her Oct. 28, but then kept it for his own use. On Oct. 31, she swore, while driving with his wife on Ann St., Stroudsburg, he stopped the car, shoved her out, and drove off with her wedding ring, a number of items of Mrs. Howell's clothing, taken from the residence, and her .22 caliber rifle. She said she didn't see him again.

Arraignment on the pistol and assault charges will be at Bonser's office at 7:30 p.m. today.

Dulles Says United States, Free Allies Have Seized Red's Cold War Initiative

Washington, (AP)—The United States and its free allies have seized the cold war initiative and will "negotiate from strength, not weakness," with Russia, Secretary of State Dulles declared yesterday.

In ten signed articles in the January issue of "Nation's Business," Dulles and all the other Cabinet members reported on their achievements in the first year of the Eisenhower administration.

The claims included attainment of the world's "most powerful and effective" air force; "substantial progress" toward sound money and tax reduction; an economic program to "foster business, not to spoon-feed business"; and restoration to the people of a "voice" in the use and management of natural resources.

Now in process, the Cabinet team reported, are an important revision of defense policy suited to the age of hydrogen warfare; proposals for tighter laws against subversion and espionage; the drafting of a plan for "permanent farm prosperity."

The magazine, published by the United States Chamber of Commerce, balanced off each article with an analysis written by an outside expert. It had Allan Nevins, historian and Pulitzer Prize winner, appraise the whole GOP record.

President Eisenhower met his "crucial test" on foreign policy, Nevins said. The historian agreed with Dulles that the country has gained ground in international affairs.

Two-Headed Child Will Be Taken Home By Its Parents

Indianapolis, (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley decided yesterday to take their two-headed son into their home near Petersburg, Ind., with their three other children as soon as Riley Hospital releases him.

Yesterday was the first time the 27-year-old mother, Margaret Hartley, had seen her 15-day-old son.

Hospital officials indicated the baby could be released before long.

The Hartleys were left alone in the room with their malformed child. They remained a short time and showed no emotion when they came out.

A doctor assured them the child's condition remains satisfactory. However, the baby has been given oxygen treatments periodically since he was brought here immediately after his birth in a Washington, Ind., hospital Dec. 13.

The hospital said the oxygen has been administered because blood circulation hasn't been normal on the left side.

The mother was unconscious when the baby was delivered by Caesarean section. Until today, she had seen only a photograph of the baby.

Dr. J. W. Elbert, the Hartleys' family physician at Petersburg, said Mrs. Hartley has recovered from the birth.

Dr. Elbert said he will come to the Indiana University Medical Center here "some time this week" to discuss the baby's case with Riley Hospital doctors. The hospital said its examination of the baby has been completed.

The Hartleys returned to Petersburg after they saw their baby in the hospital.

The Hartleys' other children, all normal, are Mary Lou, 5, Connie Sue, 4, and Shirley Ann, 2. Hartley also had three daughters and a son by a previous marriage.

Scientist Suggests Rats, Kangaroos Be Checked As Possible New Food Sources

By Frank Carey

AP Science Reporter
Boston (AP)—A Cornell scientist suggested yesterday that rats and kangaroos be investigated as possible new sources of food for man.

And, rabbits definitely should be used more widely for food than they now are, said Prof. S. A. Aspell in a report to the 120th meeting of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, (AAAS) the world's biggest general science convocation.

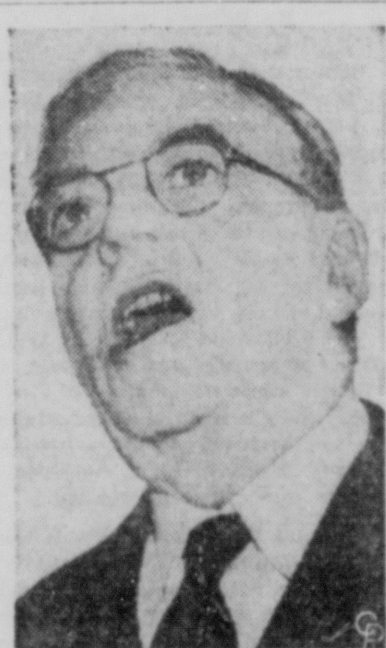

Saying that man now utilized only a very few species of animals for food—and is confronted with problems in raising them efficiently—the physiologist asserted:

"Looking ahead, perhaps we should insure for the future by inquiring into the efficiency of some of the more rapidly reproducing species. . . ."

"Kangaroos, rats and rabbits are suggested as sources of animal protein for human consumption," he said. "They all reproduce readily under domestication, and the first offers a good palatable supply of the best cuts because of its shape."

Aspell offered no views on how the flesh of a rat might taste,

Stassen Says Budget Will Be Balanced

Washington (AP)—Foreign Aid Director Harold Stassen last night predicted a balanced federal budget this year as a result of Eisenhower administration economies topped off by one billion dollars less in overseas spending than Congress authorized.

This cherished goal of a balanced budget during the fiscal year ending next June 30 can be achieved, Stassen said, because "we are getting more and more results for less money."

For the current year Congress authorized $4,531,507,000 in new money along with carryover appropriations to make the total military and economic foreign aid $6,652,422,390.

Questioned on the NBC television show "Meet the Press," Stassen repeated what he has said often in recent weeks, that foreign aid requests for the fiscal year starting next July 1 will be sharply under current appropriations.

The foreign aid director would not say how large a budget he had submitted to President Eisenhower. He said only that it will call for a decrease in military and economic aid funds and an increase in money for technical aid to backward countries.

The economic-military aid can be reduced drastically, Stassen explained, because the West European nations have strongly bolstered their economies.

"1933 has been the brightest year for the free world since World War II," he said. "We have not only held the line but have built strength."

Once again Stassen took issue with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who has urged that the Eisenhower administration cut off aid to nations which trade with Iron Curtain countries.

Stassen said it wasn't true, as McCarthy has charged, that these countries were sending war material to Communist nations. The difference here, he added, was in the definition of what would provide war potential.

"There is a great difference between war goods and other items," he said.

Stassen emphasized that he considered it essential to permit trade with Red controlled nations — "to move through any gaps in the Iron Curtain so long as you do not increase their war potential."

"If we erect a complete blockade barrier from the free world," he declared, "then we make the prospects of war more likely."

Eisenhower Group Quietly Pushing Plan

By Frank O'Brien

Washington (AP)—There are signs that the Eisenhower administration may quietly have added convertibility — free exchange of currencies — to its list of things needed for long-haul defense against communism.

Two recent speeches by high Treasury officials, one of them off the record until now, give strong signs that:

1. The administration thinks the time has about come for some major European countries to cut their coddled currencies loose for a free, convertible run in competitive world markets, and is urging them to do so.

2. It does not consider major downward revision of U. S. tariffs the principal answer to Europe's continued inability to earn enough dollars in trade to pay for its purchases in this country.

Convertibility would mean that, to take an example, Britain's Central Bank would guarantee to exchange dollars for pounds sterling for anyone who wished to convert pounds into dollars. Such conversions now may be made only by government permission and at rates set by government regulation, not supply and demand in the market.

There would be the risk that the demand for sterling-to-dollars conversion would be so heavy that Britain would run out of dollars, or gold with which to buy more dollars. That would mean virtual international bankruptcy for Britain, which depends on gold and dollar purchases of food and raw materials.

A stabilization fund for convertibility would be one set-up for nations making their currencies freely exchangeable at market rates. They could draw upon it temporarily to rectify any "run-on-the-bank." In the long run, if these nations could not produce and sell abroad enough to earn needed dollars, convertibility would fail, fund or no fund.

Signals of the development in the administration's attitude towards convertibility were raised first in a speech Nov. 16 to the National Foreign Trade convention in New York by W. Randolph Burgess, deputy to Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey for international finance and debt management. He said the chances for convertibility look better now than at any time since World War II, but it could not come about by "sole action" of the United States.

On Dec. 16, Burgess' aide, Andrew N. Overby, assistant secretary of the Treasury for international affairs, spoke off the record to the U. S. Council of the International Chamber of Commerce in New York City. The Treasury now has made the text of his remarks available upon request.

Overby declared that "the free world has probably never been in better shape" economically than now.

He added that it would not be "realistic" to look for the United States to put up "very large" amounts of dollars for a stabilization fund to encourage convertibility abroad. He suggested that "credits within our present resources may be adequate to the job."

Held After Collision

Fred Hinele, 38, of 467 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg was charged with drunken driving Saturday afternoon after his car allegedly collided with a parked car.

The accident occurred opposite the CLU club in East Stroudsburg, with several hundred dollars damage done to the car owned by "a Mrs. Staples," said Justice Herbert G. Bonser of East Stroudsburg.

Arrested by Officer Donald Quick, Hinele was taken before the justice and committed to county jail in default of bond. He was discharged yesterday after posting bail.

Records at the sheriff's office show Hinele was fined $300 for drunken driving in Sept. 1951.

Attlee Blasts U.S. Refusal On Red China

By Reiman Morin
AP News Analyst

Britain's former prime minister, Clement Attlee, has written a long and provocative summary of the sources of disagreement between the United States and Britain in the magazine "Foreign Affairs."

He opens the doors and windows on a whole attic full of divergences, and if the air is a little chilly here and there, it is also stimulating.

The section on China is particularly interesting, and I suspect it will stir many an admirer of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to take his pen in hand, dip it in vitriol, and set off on a letter to the editor.

Attlee says, in one passage: "I think that the victory of the Chinese Communists was due to the corruption of the old regime, and to the fact that the Communists offered something that appealed to the masses of the Chinese people. The evidence seems to show that where the Communists gained possession of territory in the civil war they gave a new hope to the masses of the people."

Yes, but isn't there evidence to the contrary as well? Not all the reports from foreigners who came out of China since the Reds took over support this conclusion.

Attlee continues: "It was at least clear that the Communists had become the effective government of China, and the British government, though totally opposed to Communism recognized this as a fact. The United States took a different view, as it was perfectly entitled to do."

No argument there, unless it is with the word "effective."

Attlee then points out that the question of filling the seat assigned to China in the Security Council of the U. N.—Red or Nationalist China?—brought a disagreement between Britain and America. He says:

"It was mainly due to President Roosevelt that China had been assigned this seat as one of the great powers. She was certainly not one at that time. She was weak and torn with dissension. I thought it an unwise decision at the time."

"Now, when she has become powerful, the seat is filled by the representative of a discredited faction." He says that is comparable to the "short-sighted attitude of the British government" when it supported the anti-Bolshevik factions in Russia.

He makes two points that can be chewed over at length:

One—"It may well have been that had China been given her seat in the U. N. the Korean War might never have been started... the refusal to recognize the effective government of China affronted the self-respect of the Chinese people."

Two—"I think it unlikely that the Chinese people with their ancient civilization are likely to swallow the whole Communist doctrine. Still less do I think that China is likely to become a docile satellite of Russia."

Higher School Teacher Salaries, Facilities Are PSEA Goals

Educators Lists Musts For Assembly

Harrisburg (AP) — The education needs of modern society—present and future—will be the prime discussion topics today for 3,000 teachers attending the 101st annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Keynoting the 3-day meeting is the theme "Education and Modern Youth." General school needs will be stressed in lectures to 700 official delegates rather than salary increases for teachers said Harvey E. Gayman, PSEA executive director.

Along those lines, a pre-session report by the PSEA's legislative committee declared that "Educational costs cannot be kept down when everything we buy costs us much more than before the war."

"Educational needs in Pennsylvania have not been met," the report stated. "Much remains to be done."

One of the PSEA's major legislative problems has been in keeping lawmakers from cutting funds appropriated for education.

"The 1953 session of the General Assembly may be the most important in the history of the Commonwealth," the report noted.

"Continued improvements in salaries, facilities, materials, equipment and buildings are 'musts' if we are to provide a good educational program for all the boys and girls in this great commonwealth."

To get at specific problems in educating the state's 2 million children, nearly 50 discussion groups will meet to go over school difficulties in every field.

Gov. John S. Fine is to address the opening business session of the convention tomorrow night. Dr. Francis B. Haas, state public instruction superintendent, will speak before the convention on Tuesday.

In other activities tomorrow, nominations will be presented for a successor to retiring President Thomas E. Carson, of North Allegheny schools, Allegheny County.

Among nominees suggested for the post are Norman Brillhart, head of the social studies department at Reading High School, and Leon W. Perkins, Ardmore Junior High School Teacher, Montgomery County.

Asako Erupts

Tokyo, Monday (AP) — Mt. Asako, 100 miles northwest of Tokyo, in an area where U. S. Army men soon may train for mountain warfare, had two minor eruptions yesterday.

TURNING THE HIGH-PRESSURE main valve which will feed natural gas into the Stroudsburgs is J. Paul Hart, manager of Citizens Gas Co. For first week, gas will go to East Stroudsburg; second week, all the Stroudsburgs will get it. Gas men were shutting off automatic appliances in East Stroudsburg last night. Schedule called for natural gas in feed lines by 5 a.m. today. Converting of appliances for natural gas will start today, with industry, commercial users and customers with automatic appliances getting first service. (Daily Record Photo)

Col. Tucker Transferred From Tobyhanna Signal Depot To Paris Project

Tobyhanna — Lt. Col. Charles S. Tucker, resident engineer for the $33 million Tobyhanna Signal Depot since its inception, is being transferred from that post.

Contacted last night by The Daily Record, Col. Tucker confirmed a report that he would be transferred "about Jan. 5" but said that identification of his replacement was not yet known.

Col. Tucker said he expects to be assigned to a new, important post with Army installations in Paris, France.

Work on the vast Signal Corps depot here is now "about 88 percent" completed, Col. Tucker said last night.

While confirming his own transfer from the post as Tobyhanna Signal Depot resident engineer, Col. Tucker also made public for the first time the fact that an "assistant resident Army engineer" was being assigned to Tobyhanna by the U. S. Army.

Named to this post is Capt. Joseph Palmer, now stationed at New Castle Air Force Base, New Castle, Pa. Appointment of Palmer by the Army represents the first time the post has been filled by a military man.

During early phases of the depot construction, Col. Tucker was assisted by Alvin J. Horn, Bethlehem, now resident civilian engineer.

Construction of the depot has been carried out in three major "phases." The final "phase" is now nearing completion by Merritt, Chapman and Scott.

Preparation of the site for the depot was carried out by an East Pittsburgh firm, Rochex Brothers. Second phase was handled by The Consolidated Construction Co. of Woodbury, N. J.

Col. Tucker was resident engineer at the depot during most of the work completed by all three firms.

Construction of the depot was slowed considerably by work stoppages resulting from a "jurisdictional" labor dispute outside the depot and bad weather during the winter of 1952.

Estimates on possible completion dates for work on the depot are now reportedly "early in 1954."

Col. Tucker came to Tobyhanna Signal Depot after numerous assignments with the U. S. Army Engineers at other vital depots both in the U. S. and abroad.

He served in the Pacific Theater of Operations during and after World War Two and was stationed for a time on Okinawa.

During his tenure as resident engineer at the local depot he has also become well-known among many local organizations through public relations appearances on behalf of the depot.

Col. Tucker and his family are now living at Newfoundland.

Bridge Decision Due Jan. 8

Does the U. S. District Court have jurisdiction over the closing and demolition of a Route 466 free bridge across the Delaware near Portland?

Federal Judge Phillip Forman may answer that question on Jan. 8 in Trenton, N. J., courthouse, according to New Jersey State Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr. of Phillipsburg.

Forman has been considering the plea for intervention by his court during the past two weeks. A request for court action was entered by groups of citizens from both sides of the Delaware River bridge area which would be affected by removal of a "free" span.

Shortly after opening a new toll bridge across the river last month, the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission announced it would close and demolish the Portland-Columbia, N. J. bridge.

Citizen groups from Portland and New Jersey held mass meetings protesting the plans. On Nov. 30, the petition was submitted to Judge Forman's court in Trenton.

Before he could rule on whether or not the commission should be allowed to close the bridge, however, Judge Forman said he first must decide whether the U. S. District court could legally act in the dispute.

If Forman concludes that the dispute does fall within his court's jurisdiction, he probably will rule on the Nov. 30 petition, Dumont said.

Meanwhile everything was reported ready for the dedication and formal opening of the last of the three new toll bridges in the Pocono area.

The ceremonies will be held in the middle of the $2 million Milford-Montague, N. J., bridge at noon Wednesday, followed by a luncheon at Tom Quick Inn at 1 p.m.

Eastern Gas Storage Is Planned

Shreveport, La. (AP) — Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary have filed applications with the Federal Power Commission for approval of a project involving a "gas storage service" for Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp.

(There has been speculation on the possibility of capping abandoned quarries in the Statebelt and using them for storage of natural gas. Use of the quarries for storing oil is already considered practical.)

A spokesman said if the plan is approved, Texas Eastern will store 12 billion cubic feet of natural gas per year for Transcontinental, delivering the gas in winter months at a maximum rate of 133,500 million cubic feet per day and receiving re-delivery from Transcontinental during the summer. He added:

"The wholly-owned subsidiary, Texas Eastern Penn-Jersey Transmission Corp., plans to construct and complete in time for operation in the fall of 1954, a new pipeline system at a total cost estimated at approximately 31 million dollars, including 265 miles of 24-inch pipeline extending from the Oakford storage field in Western Pennsylvania to the parent company's compressor station No. 26 near Lambertville, N. J."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Parties to the right of us, parties to the left of us—looks like a busy week for everybody. There's the Junior Woman's Club dance tonight, when it seems traditional that all the newly-engaged couples add the glitter of engagement rings to the gathering.

There are special teas for the college crowd home on vacation, and skating parties for the high school group, and open house in many a household.

Add to that the family gatherings, and you have a merry cycle. At least it looks merry from the outside looking in. Actually the working days go on as usual, and trying to emulate somebody on vacation and still keep up with the daily chores gets pretty wearying, and it's a good thing that New Year's comes just a week later to put a period to the festivities.

However, I wouldn't miss a minute of this week, so let's blow the dust off the furniture and brush the pine needles under the rug, and let's go.

Hospitality Group Hostess To Girl Scouts

The hospitality group of Mrs. Kintner's Girl Scout Troop 14 hosted to their troop at a Christmas party Wednesday at the home of Sandra Edelmans.

The twenty-five girls assembled in the living room which had two decorated Christmas trees. The program began with Mrs. Edelmans' reading of "The Littlest Angel." This was followed with the singing of special Christmas carols by members of the choir group of the East Stroudsburg Elementary School, consisting of Anna Marie Blair, Nancy Bard, Susan and Ruth Flory and Linda Nittle and later joined in by the entire group of girls.

Games were enjoyed and then the troop filed into the dining room where a Christmas table buffet was set with Christmas sandwiches and cookies and a holiday fruit punch. Earlier-than-usual goodbyes were said in order that the girls might join their sister scouts and go caroling.

If I had a crystal ball on my desk, here are a few of the gifts we'd see as we peered into the living rooms and under the trees of a few of my Wyckoff colleagues:—we'd see a shiny, copper coffee pot at the home of Shirley Williams—the same shiny, copper coffee pot from our gift department that so many of us coveted, but only Shirley received... At the Mackey's we'd find George proudly displaying his two-tone gold F.O. Eagles ring, and Blanche enthusing over her newly-acquired skirts, blouses, and dozens of other items, including a stunning antique gold bracelet set with opals and such, and a Mexican handbag of handwoven purple cloth bound in white kid... One gift that brought smiles to Ruth Widmer was a pink piggy bank with a wide grin, and a sign that says, "Mexico, here we come." Before he arrived at Ruth's home Mr. Oink had gobbled two quarters, the first step toward what is planned as a glorious vacation... Betty Frantz of our display department was wearing one of her prized gifts last Thursday — a bib-collared gray fur from our accessories department that was stunning with her red knit suit.

Don't know what Dottie Dunn would classify as her best Christmas gift, but she was proud as Punch of a necklace from Venice, the green, decorated beads of glass, being about the size of peas, and all hand made... Betty Bartholomew had beads from Venice under her Christmas tree too, but these were of clear blue glass with gold spattered through... Copper jewelry went to Margaret Hunter of pay roll, whose taste runs to more tailored accessories. Her earrings are from the workshop of Gret Barkin, whose clever designs have delighted Wyckoff customers repeatedly these past several years... Ann Weiss of our handbag department, was happy as a lark with her gift of a gorgeous Mexican skirt, blouse and stole, lavishly trimmed with handmade lace. Just perfect for those dances she does these days as an Arthur Murray pupil.

Santa Claus also made a tremendous hit with Fanny Strunk of our employees' cafeteria when he left packages containing a daintily embroidered Carter featherweight nightgown and a stunning housecoat for television... Tommy Rinschart proved a perfect Santa, we understand, by making a miniature wooden sleigh and loading it with cheeses of all types for a VIP of our acquaintance... Gracie Grace was delighted with Jean Nate after-bath lotion... and one of our unsung heroines at Wyckoff's, whose identity shall not be revealed, found herself in possession of a tiny fire truck as token of her quick courage... as for me, one of my loveliest gifts was a big piece of needlepoint with sufficient yarn for its working. Which answers the problem of what I'll be doing come New Year's eve. Why not bring your knitting and join me?

Incidentally, the store's open once again today—and I'm one person who's glad of it. Holidays are fine and I love them—but three days of rest in a row are bad. I've eaten so much, and rested so much, I'll probably waste this entire day catching up on the gossip and getting back in shape. Why not drop in and take advantage of our post-holiday bargains?

County Home Guests Are Entertained

Members of the local Adventist Church repeated their "Thanksgiving act of kindness on Saturday afternoon when they made another visit to the Monroe County home at Kellersville. This time in the form of a Christmas party, when they brought cheer to the more than fifty guests there.

This visit took the place of the regular monthly visit to the Home and a full program had been planned. Those folks who were able had gathered in the main dining room for the service, and gathered round the huge Christmas tree to join in the singing of Christmas Carols. Several musical numbers were presented by the Girl's Trio, and Mrs. Bruce Cortright sang a solo.

Dr. L. D. Warren was the speaker of the afternoon and chose as his subject, "Putting Christ back in Christmas." At the close of the service individual boxes all beautifully wrapped and filled with fruit, candy, nuts and cookies were presented to those who had made their way to the dining room. Later the church group visited both the Men's and Women's Wards and played recordings of Christmas carols by the Kings Herald quartet, and had prayer with them.

They distributed their gifts to the bed-fast patients.

Members of the Strodsburg and Easton Seventh Day Adventist Churches gathered Saturday night in the social room of the Municipal building for an evening of social entertainment and fun. More than one hundred members were present to join in the games and singing of songs. A film, "Along the Santa Fe," was shown by the Missionary Volunteer Society of the local church, under the leadership of Mrs. Helen Warren.

Among those present were the four youths from the local Church who are attending the Philadelphia Academy. This group consists of Joan and Jean Loney, Janet Anawalt and Kenneth Roth.

Refreshments were served by the committee and an enjoyable time was had by all.

Layne's Touchdown Strike Makes Lions National Grid Champs

Third Team To Win Two World Titles

Detroit, (AP)—Quarterback Bob Layne pitched a dramatic 33-yard touchdown strike to end Jim Doran with less than 3 minutes to go to give the fighting Detroit Lions a 17-16 victory over the Cleveland Browns yesterday for the professional football championship of the world.

The Lions, apparently beaten by the spectacular field goal kicking of Cleveland's Lou Groza, marched 81 yards through the gloom in Briggs Stadium in the closing minutes to become the third team in history to win two straight national football league titles.

The winning pass play was an amazing smooth operation but it shocked the 54,577 spectators from their seats.

Layne lofted a soft pass into the end zone and it was just a matter of whether the speeding Doran could catch up with it.

He did. The former Iowa State end broke loose behind Ken Konz, broke halfway back, and cradled the ball into his arms as he sped past the money stripe.

Donk Walker kicked the winning extra point at 12:52—and for the third straight year the Browns, classed as one of the greatest organizations in the game, were whipped in the title contest.

Detroit defeated the Browns, 17-16, in the play-off at Cleveland last year. In 1951, the Clevelanders were knocked off by the Los Angeles Rams, 24-17, in the title game.

So Brownie Coach Paul Brown must now go home and plan for the 1954 season. He's rated as one of the most successful coaches in history but he's never been able to beat a team coached by Lions Buddy Parker. And today was his seventh try.

It looked however as though the Browns would gain long awaited revenge. Almost helpless in the first half, they charged back after the intermission and played like an entirely different team.

Groza kicked two field goals in the fourth quarter putting Cleveland ahead for the first time, 16-10.

But Layne was a master signal caller in the final drive. He passed twice to Doran for 17 and 18 yards putting the ball on Cleveland's 45. The Lion quarterback hit end Coyce Box on the Brownie 36 and then dove himself to the 33.

Then came the big play. Doran, playing full time on offense, after Leon Hart was injured in the early minutes, circled to the right and cut down the sidelines. Layne's perfect pitch was awaiting him when he raced into the corner of the end zone.

The game was a vicious hard-hitting affair and in the closing minutes, players from both teams, reinforced by both benches, tangled on the field.

Otto Graham, Cleveland's master quarterback, had perhaps his worst game ever—completing only two passes in 15 tries for 20 yards. He had fair protection, but couldn't seem to get his footing over the slippery turf.

With their air attack blunted, the Browns moved along the ground and fullback Chic Jagade almost carried them to victory on his 220-pound frame. He was the game's best runner, piling up 102 yards and scoring the Brown's only touchdown.

But it's tough to win the pro game without a passing attack, and the Lions had one while the Browns didn't. Layne completed 12 of 25 passes for 179 yards.

Graham had his troubles right from the start. On the second play of the game he fumbled and the Lions turned the fumble into a touchdown.

Les Bingaman, Detroit's 300 pound guard, fell on Graham's fumble on the Brownie 13. Five plays—all grueling—carried to the one where Walker drove across at 4:05. He converted and Detroit had a stunning 7-0 lead.

In the second period, Groza kicked the first of the three field goals, a 15 yarder. Walker offset this with a 23 yard field goal and Detroit led at the intermission, 10-3.

It was a different Cleveland team at the start of the second half. The Browns tied the score at 6:38 of the third period when Jagade slammed nine yards through guard. It was a 51-yard march in 8 plays. The crowd was tensely silent as the teams, locked in a 10-10 tie, battled up and down the field.

The spell was broken after only 44 seconds of the final period when Groza kicked a 15-yard field goal. He added a 43-yarder at 10:50 and it appeared the Browns were home.

But the Lions, playing before a sellout crowd, and a national television audience, came up with another patented last minute finish.

Cleveland 0 3 7 6—16
Detroit 7 3 0 7—17

Cleveland scoring: Touchdown, Jagade; conversion, Groza; field goals, Groza, 3.
Detroit scoring: Touchdowns, Walker, Doran; conversions, Walker, 2; field goal, Walker.

Northampton, Slatington Are Winners

By Dick Hoenig

Harrisburg (AP)—A dozen tournaments and benefits topped by two annual Western Pennsylvania events involving eight good teams provide the schoolboy basketball action for the holiday week.

While most of the state's school teams are idle or meet only alumni opponents during the vacation period, more than 50 squads are entered in invitational meets.

The first two tournaments of the week got under way at Slatington and Hazleton Saturday night. Northampton downed Weatherly, 62-49, and Slatington routed Summit Hill, 96-45 in first round games of the Lehigh Valley League invitational. Freshland stopped Berwick, defeating touring winner, 65-48 at Hazleton as West Hazleton downed Kingston, 60-47.

The 8th annual Lehigh Valley Invitational opens at Allentown Tuesday with eight teams entered in separate Class A and B competition. Pairings are Bethlehem (4-0) vs Easton (5-1) and Nesquehoning vs Fountain Hill on Tuesday; and Parkland vs Allentown Central Catholic and Bethlehem Catholic vs Coplay on Wednesday.

Finals are Jan. 2. Allentown, District 11 titleholder, looking for its sixth straight win, plays Philadelphia Overbrook Wednesday in a benefit game. The 13th annual eye glass benefit doubleheader at Reading has Reading facing Easton and Robesonia meeting Fleetwood.

The state champion, Yeadon High, is among the quintets ready to complete pre-league warmup competition. The Eagles (5-0) meet Old Forge (4-1) Tuesday at Scranton in the feature of an Old Forge Lions benefit doubleheader. It's Carbondale vs. South Catholic of Scranton in the preliminary.

Eight clubs with a combined loss total of five games are entered in the two big meets in the west at Farrell and Johnstown. The 2nd Farrell Lions Invitational boasts three undefeated entries plus the 1951 state champion and host, Farrell.

Sharpshooters (6-0) takes on Homestead (6-0) in a battle between District 10 power and a WPAL threat; and Meadville (6-0), defending District 10 champ, goes against Farrell (6-1). The winners play off Tuesday. The host club won last year.

The 5th Cambria County War Memorial tourney Tuesday and Wednesday has two more WPAL powers and an eastern challenger joining the host Johnstown club, also the winner last year.

Johnstown (6-0), again looking like the best in District 6, faces New Kensington (6-1); New Castle (3-3) takes on Chester (4-0), of suburban Philadelphia Section 1, in the Johnstown preliminaries. The winners meet Wednesday.

Butler, Tyrone, Erie East and Kane open tournament play at Kane tomorrow with the pairings to be made then. Finals are Tuesday. Entries in the Mercer Tourney, also Monday and Tuesday, are Mercer, Stoneboro, Avalon and Wampum.

The West Middlesex Kiwanis Invitational is set for Jan. 1 and 2 at West Middlesex with Greenville playing West Middlesex and Hickory meeting Conneaut Lake the first night.

Another eye glass benefit doubleheader will be played at Pine Grove Jan. 2 with St. Clair going against Cressona and Pine Grove against Kutztown.

Officials of the British Columbia game commission estimate that 1,600 moose were killed by hunters during the 1953 season.

Non-Tournament Clash Between Kentucky, Minnesota Is Top Court Game This Week

By Sheldon Sakowitz

New York (AP)—Collegiate basketball's holiday tournaments swing into high gear this week with several of the nation's top ranked teams hoping to bolster their stature against intersectional opposition.

Three tourneys launched the holiday carnival Saturday and by midweek there'll be 14 more sprinkled around the country. The week's big game, however, figures to be a non-tournament clash between second-ranked Kentucky (6-0) and eighth-ranked Minnesota (7-0) at Lexington.

Only three of the top 10 teams—Duke, Minnesota and North Carolina State—saw action last night as most of the clubs rested for the impending holiday tourneys.

Third-ranked Duquesne whipped New York University 75-49 in the opening round of the Madison Square Garden holiday festival.

Sophomore sensation Si Green paced the Dukes with 23 points and teammate Dick Ricketts chipped in with 17. Minnesota overcame an 11-point halftime deficit to edge Xavier of Cincinnati 67-61.

Ninth-ranked North Carolina State (8-1), warming up for the Dixie Classic, posted a 71-60 victory over Penn. Vic Molodet led the Wolfpack with 28 points.

Duke's next opponent Monday night in the Garden festival will be Brigham Young, winner of eight straight games. The Dukes looked impressive Saturday against NYU, but they may receive some stiff competition from the Cougars, who aren't even listed among the nation's top 25 teams.

Brigham Young handled Manhattan a 75-58 setback in the first round Saturday. Niagara and LaSalle joined Duquesne and Brigham Young in the second round of the Garden festival. In Saturday's opening round games, Niagara shaded St. John's of Brooklyn 70-69 and All-American Tom Gola sparked LaSalle to a 77-63 triumph over St. Louis University. LaSalle will meet Niagara in the semi-finals Monday night.

The Hofstra invitation saw Cortland (NY) Teachers, defending champs, turn back Lafayette play continues Monday night. In other games Saturday night, 7-3 center Wade Swede Halbrook scored 24 points to lead Oregon State to a 62-60 victory over Ohio State. Northwestern trimmed Yale 76-57. St. Bonaventure defeated Detroit 70-66. Temple beat Santa Clara, 67-57. Columbia squeezed by Canisius 68-66 in overtime. Utah State downed St. Joseph's (Pa.) 71-64.

Winning Touchdown Pass Was Set Up From Bench

Detroit, (AP)—"What a season!"

That was Detroit Lions coach Buddy Parker speaking yesterday as he sat in the boss's cage of the Detroit dressing room, letting his nerves unwind after his squad's explosive 17-16 victory over the Cleveland Browns for the National Football League championship.

Parker was in a happily dazed condition as well wishers filed through his office.

The locker room itself was bedlam except for one moment when the Lions coach shouted for attention with a special announcement. Parker's brief speech:

"This one is for the players. The game means $2,424.10 each." The announcement brought a new crescendo of shouts.

End Jim Doran told interviewers the winning touchdown pass in the fourth period was set up when the Lions bench noted Cleveland's secondary playing close up to slow the ends who were going out for passes.

"I went out and faked a block, and then cut around a Cleveland defender. I raced towards the end zone and when I looked up, there was the ball," Doran said.

"It was the toughest game we've ever lost," said Paul Brown, the Browns' dejected coach.

"I doubt if any team ever lost a tougher one."

Brown refused to comment on the Lions winning pass play. He just shook his head.

It was, in reality, a bitter defeat for him. He's never beaten a team coached by Buddy Parker and he's never won a football game in Detroit.

Rough Cager Is Referee

Oconomowoc, Wis.—Some 25 years ago, a tousle-haired kid named Conway was one of the worst baiters of basketball referees in these parts.

Today Joe Conway, still tousle-haired at 38, is known as one of the better college basketball officials in the country. "I guess I was pretty bad when I was a kid," Conway grins impishly. "I was always reading the rule book and I thought I saw things the officials missed. I remember that now sometimes, when I run into a player like I used to be, I try to take it easy with him."

Conway is the only Big Ten basketball official who never went to college. He's also the only one who's been called on three successive times to go abroad for the adjutant general's office to teach the finer points of whistle blowing to servicemen. He made his third trip last fall—40 Europe after excursions to Japan in 1951 and 1952.

ONE of the greats of yesterday in the pro football sport, Verne G. Lewellen has been named the first full-time general manager of the Green Bay Packers. Lewellen, seen above when he was a flashy halfback for the Packers, will first try to find a coach to replace Gene Ronzani, who was fired November 27. Lewellen played during the years 1924-32 and scored 50 touchdowns. (International)

Swift Power Boats To Race

Miami, Fla.—Some of the fastest power boats in the world are coming to Florida this winter to take part in a streamlined racing program designed to attract the best in a variety of classes.

The roar of powerful 266 cubic centimeter hydroplanes will vie with the whine of little outboards and the sturdy churning of the inboards on many a mile of ocean, lake and river.

The nice thing about it is that it's a sport you can afford.

1953 Sports In Review

By Jack Hand

For Whitney Martin
New York (UP)—This was the year Milwaukee went big league, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Dessen wrote a letter and Jersey Joe didn't get up... A man named Stengel won a fifth straight pennant and World Series and Native Dancer didn't win the Derby.

Mickey Mantle hit a 562-foot homer at Washington to start Yankee publicist Red Patterson on a new career as a surveyor and Carl Furillo hit Leo Durocher to sit out the batting race with a broken hand... A football headline, "Iowa Ties Notre Dame" started a rihubarb and Hollywood scouted South Bend for Oscar candidates.

Golf interest soared to the level of the Bobby Jones' days as Ben Hogan went to Scotland to add the British Open to his U. S. Open championships, and came home to a tieker tape shower on Broadway... Lew Worsham sunk a 140-yard approach for an eagle 2 at the Tam O'Shanter, the golf shot of the year... Babe Didrikson Zaharias fought back gamely to resume her career after they said she never again would swing a club.

Florence Chadwick swam everything except the Atlantic Ocean and little Mo Connolly won everything but the Davis Cup... Kid Gavilan was knocked off his feet for the first time in years by Carmen Basilio... Chuck Daube's career as a Wednesday night TV entertainer went into a tailspin, thanks to Gavilan and Al Andrews... Rocky Graziano branched out as a TV comic with Martha Raye.

The Milwaukee club was so hot that shortstop Johnny Logan and pitcher Vern Riffe went four rounds after a night game... Maury McDermott took a poke at a Boston sportswriter and wound up in Washington... The St. Louis Browns finally disappeared and Baltimore moved back into the big leagues while Mayor Tom D'Alesandro pressed an ear against a hotel window to hear the details of a hectic American League meeting.

Conec Bear Bryant of Kentucky dressed out his football club for losing, only to find out hours later that the game actually ended in a tie... Whitey Ford forgot to tag up at third and was thrown out at the plate in the final World Series game... Ford Frick was left "waiting at the church" when the invited ball players failed to show up unless they could bring their lawyer.

Roland LaStarza shook off Marciano's best punches and made the champ miss like a Golden Glover until the Rock finally wore him down... Red Top Davis and George Araujo tripped the light fantastic at Madison Square Garden... Cole Wallace starred in "The Joe Louis Story" but flopped in real life when he was knocked out by Ezzard Charles at San Francisco.

Nino Valdez, a nobody, became No. 1 heavyweight challenger by upsetting Charles at Miami and knocking out Heinz Neubaus in Germany... Harold Johnson still was on the outside looking in while Archie Moore and Joey Maxim prepared to do it again at Miami... The A's went heavy for Yankee farm talent in a rebuilding move but gave up Harry Byrd and Eddie Robinson to strengthen the Yanks bid for No. 6.

Virgil Trucks stood the American League on its ear with a brilliant comeback after he was traded to Chicago by St. Louis... Ted Williams came back from Korea to hit .400 in the final weeks of the season... Gerry Coleman followed Williams home from Korea in time to have a special day at Yankee Stadium.

Lefty Gomez kept busy helping baseball games and telling his funny stories. Walter Alston, a household name only in Oxford, Ohio, became a national figure when he was named Dodger manager... Birdie Tebbets came back to the majors as Cincinnati manager. Eddie Joost moved from shortstop to boss of the A's and Jimmy Dykes shifted to Baltimore with General Manager Art Ehlers.

Tom Fool was the horse of the year... Willie Shoemaker broke all records for winning races... The harness tracks were on the hot seat and Empire City ran its 11th meeting without a race track.

Crows Are Golf Hazard

Inzen, Japan, Monday (UP)—Golf in this scenic highland country is strictly for the birds.

Whether an expert booms one straight down the fairway or a duffer slices into the rough—out darts a crow and makes off with the ball.

Caddies now make more money searching crow nests for balls, worth about 500 yen each ($1.40) than they do caddying. One caddy found 30 balls in a single nest. There are several theories why the crows have left the rice farms for the golf courses, among them one that shotguns are illegal on the fairways.

One duffer remarked it was bad enough to lose a ball but "Why does the crow have to call 'A-ho, a-ho, a-ho'?"

"A-ho" is Japanese for "fool,"

Clarence (Biggie) Mann's seven-year football coaching record at Michigan State is 53 wins, nine losses and two ties.

The University of Texas has made seven postseason football bowl appearances. Their record is five wins, one loss and one tie.

C Of C Questionnaires Bring Out Variety Of Gripes, Suggestions

By Leonard Randolph

The present Chamber of Commerce is "too conservative."

It needs a more democratic approach to most of its problems—especially in direction of its meeting.

These two opinions, isolated though they may be, represent a recurrent theme in answers to the Chamber's recent questionnaire mailed out to 1700 Monroe County persons.

Through such answers to its questions, the Chamber hopes to work out a representative cross-section of current gripes and suggestions.

Both the above opinions were contained in the answers mailed in by a Mount Pocono businessman.

What the Chamber needs, says the Mount Pocono man, is "more directors who are not of the old guard type."

Another good idea, he thinks, would be "more open meetings."

Why does he believe this? The answer is equally plain and blunt:

"The average member believes he has no voice," the Mount Pocono man continues. "He believes the executive committee makes decisions which all 'little boys' should realize is best for them. The nominating committee is not broad in their selections."

Here then is an oft-repeated complaint against so-called "big" organizations: the little guy is "lost in the works" and feels, ultimately, that he is being "looked down upon."

The request for "open" meetings pops up frequently in the first 77 questionnaires mailed back to the Chamber by local businessmen, resort owners and labor groups.

An East Stroudsburg labor leader, for example, points out that his union sent two delegates to Chamber meetings a couple of years ago, at request of Chamber officials.

Both these delegates attended the meetings, apparently attempted to take part in discussions, returned to their union group and made their report.

Said the labor delegates to their governing body: "It was a waste of time for a working man to be a member. We were merely window dressing."

The feeling, therefore, was this: Someone in the Chamber had decided to try injecting a bit of government by representation in the Chamber's make-up.

Laboring men were invited to take part in the organization. Once they had joined the group, however, the "taking part" had been reduced to "respectfully listening" while their betters discussed the important matters of the world.

The crux of both these issues, as stated by the Mount Pocono man and the Eastburg labor leader, is this:

During the past the Chamber has shown a tendency toward "superior" attitudes on the part of its higher echelon. Much of the business has been conducted in private or secret session, without the overall discussion of the main group.

Worse than either of these two things, in the minds of the two adults answering the Chamber's form, is the condescension with which Chamber directors apparently treat their subjects.

There are other matters about the present Chamber which do not measure up to the ideal some residents have in their minds.

Take, for instance, a man from Mountaintown, who has this to say:

"The dues are too high. I see no value for a professional man whose income is not based on sales of a product but can sell only his time. There is nothing done to increase the income of people working in existing community industry."

Encouragement of good roads, such as the "Rita Parkway" and other scenic drives.

To help provide "skilled workers" for new industry which would in turn open up employment areas for such workers, the Chamber of Commerce should work hand in hand with schools in developing a skilled labor training program.

The Mountaintown resident concludes with the following notation:

"The county needs a Chamber of Commerce—not as a tool for a few individuals or minority groups. The general opinion I have heard is that it is not representative of general community thinking or feeling."

Other reactions contained in a current sampling of answers received from the questionnaire were these:

From Stroudsburg: "I feel the Chamber is more interested in bringing a small business to town than a large one which would pay decent salaries. It is more interested in keeping it a 'resort town'."

From Cresco: Dues should be lowered. "It's better to have 600 members at $30 than 360 at $40."

From Stroudsburg: The present Chamber is "an energetic group striving against odds to try to better the county." It should "take the starch out of meetings, trying to get more than one or two business men to play an active part."

From Bartonsville: $40 is a "lot of money unless one can see benefit for himself and his community." ($40 is the current dues.)

Stroudsburg: The Chamber should "encourage local residents to develop new enterprises in the community, as well as bringing new industry into the community. Traffic congestion and housing are two problems in which the Chamber should be vitally and continually interested."

Gilbert (orchestra leader): "So far as the music business is concerned, have had no breaks."

Stroudsburg: The Chamber should "vigorously strive to completely eliminate the Stroudsburg traffic bottleneck which is the most potent poison to the Pocono Mountains resort industry." It should also "raise and invest $100,000 annually to promote all types of Pocono Mountains industry and to give the area constant publicity."

Mount Pocono: This man said he "has always been a member" and would continue to be one. But—"the directors and committees are not doing their part. 30-minute discussions monthly, or a total of six hours annually, is entirely insufficient time to properly carry out the aims of the Chamber."

Stroudsburg: I have complete faith in the present executive committee to decide what (services) the Chamber should perform.

Two residents—one from East Stroudsburg RD2; the other from Stroudsburg—were in agreement with the editorial printed in The Daily Record on Thursday, Dec. 10.

And so it goes through the first 77 questionnaires returned to the Chamber offices in Stroudsburg.

In nearly all the questionnaires, there remains agreement on one basic point: Monroe County needs a Chamber.

Most of the residents answering thus far are equally certain on changes they feel the Chamber should make.

Many of the "changes" deal with an adverse feeling which members believe the Chamber has built up between itself and the public.

Until that feeling is changed, the questionnaire indicates, the Chamber's policies will fall on unhearing ears.

One Stroudsburg resident, however, injected a generalized note into his answer. Said he:

"Why have I not joined the Chamber of Commerce? Because I am completely and utterly opposed to the policies of the National Chamber."

"You are affiliated with it and hence, guilty by association."

Kunkletown

Mrs. Adan Bohner

Jolly Jane Card Club members held their annual Christmas banquet at the American Hotel in Kunkletown. The table and dining room were decorated in the holiday motif. There was an exchange of gifts and games.

Rev. and Mrs. Adan Bohner attended the meeting of the Carbon Co. Ministerium at the home of Rev. and Mrs. William Longsdorf in Palmerton.

The following officers were installed on Sunday during services at St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed Church: Norman Berger, Ellwood Shupp, Leon Barlieb and Silas Smith.

Mrs. Herman Barlieb has returned home from the Palmerton Hospital and is recovering nicely from her recent operation.

Rev. Mrs. H. Bohner attended the Ladies Aid and Sisters of the Skillet Xmas Dinner at the firehall in Saylorsburg.

Brandon Deulin of New York City is spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wilmoth and Elizabeth.

Adenauer Agrees

Bonn, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer predicted yesterday the Western Big Three will accept Russia's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin Jan. 25 or later instead of on Jan. 4.

Stroudsburg: I have complete faith in the present executive committee to decide what (services) the Chamber should perform.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked numbers give you.

First Play Presented In New School

Sciota. The first play to be presented in the new Hamilton Consolidated school here was given last week under the capable supervision of Mrs. Mildred Cyphers who was both musical director and dramatic coach.

The pageant "The First Noel" was performed in seven scenes with Nancy Spencer as narrator. Members of the seventh and eighth grades took part in the play and were members of the forty voice chorus. During the scene of the Annunciation a chorus of girls voices was heard in "Voices We Have Heard On High."

A real manger with a shining star overhead formed an exceptionally beautiful setting for the Nativity.

A boys trio, whose members were Phillip Brewer, John Stout and Richard Courtwright, were also heard.

Members of the cast included: Madonna, Evelyn Pensyl; Joseph, James Shafer; Three Kings, Ernest Heller, Freddie Rinker and John Stout; Shepherds, Gary Dettler, John Reaser, Johnson Marsh, Freddie Marsh and Melvin Warfield; Angels, Joan Hunt, Beverly Bond, Linda Kresge, and Anita Ace.

Accompanists for musical numbers were Mrs. Cyphers, Joan Hunt, Joan Sprague and Nancy Hartman.

At the close of the play the assembled audience joined with the chorus and cast in singing "Joy To The World," "O Come All Ye Faithful," and "Silent Night."

Classes returned to their respective home rooms after seasons greetings were expressed by N. Henry Fenner, building principal, and Mrs. Elam Gray, Mrs. Lucy Warner, Mrs. Ethel Rinker, Mrs. Floyd Cyphers, Miss Helen Kirkhuff, Miss Mary Shiffer, Calvin Smith and John Maokes, members of the faculty.

Prior to the presentation of the play members of the various classes held Christmas parties in their respective home rooms with gifts being exchanged by the pupils and teachers. Faculty members presented their home room pupils with boxes of candy.

Classes will resume at the Hamilton school on Jan. 4, 1954.

Christmas Program At Swiftwater

Swiftwater. Children of the Sunday School were heard in the first half of the Christmas program given Wednesday night at the Reformed Church, following the opening song, then scripture and prayer by the pastor, Rev. William E. Foose. Participants were:

Recitation, Billy Coffman; recitation, Carlene Newhart; exercise, Ronnie and Donnie Simpson, Nancy Leles, Wanda Keiper, Dorothy Simpson, Connie Keiper, Ruth Simpson, and Connie Kresge; recitation, George Hansell; recitation, Irene Bush; solo, "Away in a Manger," Richard Leles; exercise, Nancy Leles, Ruth Simpson, Dorothy Simpson, Connie Keiper, and Connie Kresge; exercise, Paulette Fretz, Margaret Lilius, Richard Leles; Nancy Leles and Billy Coffman; recitation, Barbara Bush, Joyce Shick and Susie Fretz; exercise, Brenda Coffman, Linda Fretz, and Mary Lou Lilius.

All the children sang "Jingle Bells," followed by the recitation "Give a Gift to Jesus" by Susie Fretz, after which an offering was given which will go to the Bethany Orphanage.

Donald Coffman was the narrator for the song and story program, "Joseph and the Nativity," with Francis Coffman showing the slide films. The wall in back of the chancel served as a screen and the effect was very striking, with the Christmas greens and decorations surrounding the colored pictures.

Beverly Bach and Lewis Heckman read parts of the angels and prophets. Mrs. Walter Davis and John Fretz were the soloists, and a duet combined the voices of Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Walter Rowe. The junior choir was heard in two songs. The congregation joined in singing the closing carol.
